Paper Title

Introductions are important and should get the reader’s attention with an interesting fact, statistic, or story. When I quote a source in my paper, it is as if I am inserting someone else’s voice into my monologue. If I do this without the proper transition, my writing will not flow smoothly and may not make sense to the audience (Mason and Dolan 62). As a Writing Center handout says, writers should “[i]ncorporate quotations into [their] own sentences” (“Using Sources”). In my next paragraph, I could also paraphrase or summarize a source. To do this, I would restate the idea(s) presented in my source, but I would use my own words to express those ideas (Cox). The last sentence of my introduction is my thesis statement, which generally states the main points of my paper.

Works Cited Page

- It is the last, new page of your paper, not a new document, and it is also double-spaced. Margins are 1”.
- ALPHABETIZE! (Do NOT number.)
- The title on this page should be centered. If there is only one entry, the title is Work Cited.
- Make sure every source cited (including PRIMARY sources) is on your Works Cited page.
- Abbreviate names of months using the first three letters, except September (Sept.). Do not abbreviate May, June, and July.
